

Ryan Ben
Director of Association Experience at IIDA

Ryan Ben has worked at the International Interior Design Association since 2011. In that time, he has become adept at event management, panel moderation, program creation, and crafting resources designed to enhance the membership experience. In addition, Ryan is an actor, writer, facilitator, and performer with over a decade of improvisation experience. Ryan believes we each have a powerful story to tell and enjoys helping designers share their story with other members of the IIDA community. Ryan is also a triathlon and endurance sport enthusiast and became a new dad in October, 2020. He will talk about either thing endlessly given the opportunity.
