The Interior Designers of Canada Foundation (IDCF) was founded in 1990 as a registered charitable foundation, with a mission to contribute to the advancement of the interior design profession nationally.

IDCF is managed by a board of volunteers, with support from Interior Designers of Canada (IDC) staff, who organize events to raise funds for the foundation and help promote the work of the foundation and IDC members across the country.

In addition, the IDCF:

- Provides scholarships, bursaries, and fellowships to interior design students and practitioners to further their training, development and/or continuing education;
- Endows or establishes professorships and other positions for the teaching of interior design at educational institutions;
- Grants and confers awards, citations, medals, and other prizes in recognition of educational or other meritorious works in the field of interior design;
- Provides for the preparation and dissemination to the public of educational and scientific information on the discipline of interior design, and in the related arts and sciences, through such means as publications, exhibits, conferences, lectures, and seminars;
- Provides grants in aid of research or to undertake research in the field of interior design and in associated disciplines.

Robert Ledingham Lecture Series

Featuring Klaus Nienkämper

for research + education
interior design + innovation

On June 16, 2021, the IDCF held a special event honouring the memory of Robert Ledingham, one of Canada’s most celebrated interior designers.

Robert Ledingham was instrumental in advancing the profession locally, nationally, and internationally, and was a leader in the development of the interior design educational accreditation process in North America.

The Robert Ledingham Legacy program was established in 2013 by IDC and IDIBC and supports interior design postgraduate study.

The lecture series’ inaugural speaker was Klaus Nienkämper, one of Canada’s pre-eminent names in furniture design and manufacture. Nienkämper presented an in depth look at his own personal journey in the industry, lessons learned along the way, and what lies ahead for furniture design, manufacture and distribution.

All donations through registration for the event were applied to the Robert Ledingham Scholarship fund. The donations were generously matched by Nienkämper, for a total of $5,140 raised.
