ANNUAL REPORT

ABOUT IDC

Founded in 1972, Interior Designers of Canada (IDC) is the national advocacy association for the interior design profession.

As the national advocacy body, IDC represents more than 5,000 design professionals including fully qualified interior designers and related professionals.

Additionally, IDC has over 200 manufacturers and suppliers who provide products and services for interior design projects and firms.

IDC STRATEGIC PLAN

The IDC Strategic Plan was updated in 2026 with input from members, the Board of Directors, the Chief Executive Officer, and staff.

The research for the report was conducted through interviews with current, former and potential new IDC members to capture sentiment on the greatest opportunities for organizational impact.

IDC's interior design community identified five priorities of focus.

01 Strengthening the Identity of Interior Designers

02 Expanding Business and Career Education for Members

03 Enhancing National Engagement and Accessibility

04 Benchmarking Other Associations to Create Even More Value

05 Streamlining + Enhancing Membership Process

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

It has been a rewarding year for IDC, and I am honoured to have served as President of the 2025–2026 Board of Directors. It has been a privilege to connect with members across the country, hear your perspectives and ideas, and work together to advance our profession.

One of my priorities as President was to broaden access to and increase awareness of interior design research. Research is an essential but often underutilized resource within our profession, with enormous potential to inform practice, influence decision-making and demonstrate the value of design. IDC's recent Design Symposium in Toronto provided an opportunity to bring this conversation forward through its speakers and presenters. There is much more to explore, and I hope research will continue to be an important focus for our association.

As our industry evolves through new technologies and changing expectations, interior designers must help lead the conversation. IDC has an important role to play in bringing together members, industry partners, students, educators and thought leaders to explore emerging ideas and the issues shaping our profession and the spaces we create.

Throughout the year, IDC also provided opportunities for members to connect, learn and share their experiences through networking events, educational programs and international trade missions. Representing our national association at local, national and international events was a highlight of my term, and I encourage more members to take advantage of these opportunities to engage with their peers and the broader design community.

Equally important is recognizing the exceptional work happening across our profession. By sharing members' achievements and showcasing compelling design stories from across Canada, we help raise the profile of interior design and celebrate the talent, creativity and expertise within our community.

I want to sincerely thank IDC's dedicated staff and my colleagues on the Board of Directors for their commitment, leadership and hard work throughout the year. It has been a pleasure working alongside such a passionate group of professionals who care deeply about the future of our industry.

As I conclude my term, I wish the incoming President and Board every success. I look forward to remaining engaged with IDC and our membership as the association continues its important work and pursues new opportunities for the profession.

Thank you for your support and for the opportunity to serve.

Sincerely,

Christine Weber
President, IDC Board of Directors

MESSAGE FROM THE CEO

It has been another exciting year for IDC and Canada's interior design community, with inspiring initiatives, events and opportunities bringing our members together across the country and around the world.

I am grateful to be part of such a talented and engaged community. Through international trade missions, national events and our Design Symposium, we continue to build connections, exchange ideas, celebrate achievements and explore new opportunities for collaboration. These experiences reinforce the value of our collective voice and the important role design plays in shaping how people live, work and connect.

Listening to our members and responding to their needs remain central to IDC's work. Our updated strategic plan, informed by surveys and interviews with current, former and prospective members, will help guide our priorities and strengthen our impact in the years ahead.

We are also committed to providing meaningful research and resources to support the profession. In collaboration with DMC Recruitment Group, IDC is proud to share the 2026 Salary Report, offering new insights into compensation, professional satisfaction and workplace priorities. This research, made possible by member participation, helps inform important conversations about the future of our industry.

Looking ahead, IDC will continue to raise the profile of interior design, advocate for the profession and build a more inclusive industry where all designers can thrive. We will keep sharing our members' stories, supporting the next generation and working to remove barriers across the profession.

Thank you to our members for your continued engagement, creativity and leadership; to our volunteer Board and committees for their guidance and dedication; and to our sponsors, partners and small but mighty IDC team for making our work possible.

I am proud of what we have accomplished together and energized by the opportunities ahead. With your continued support, we can build an even stronger future for interior design in Canada.

Here's to another year of progress, collaboration and success!

Sincerely,

Trevor Kruse
Chief Executive Officer, IDC
